Consent

Consent Form

This study is conducted by Gilad Feldman of the psychology department at University of Hong Kong and colleagues. If you have questions or concerns regarding this project, please do not hesitate to contact Gilad Feldman gfeldman@hku.hk at any time.

Purpose of the study
To understand how people think, feel, make decisions, and act in various types of situations. Preferences and individual differences between people, as well as both internal and external factors, may affect these types of responses and this research intends to uncover and/or understand these processes.

Procedures.
This study will ask you to complete a set of questionnaires requiring decision making in various scenarios. The duration of this study has been indicated on the task that you accepted.

Potential risks.
This procedure has no known risks greater than those of ordinary daily life.

Potential benefits.
This study aims to add to existing research line in the field of social-cognitive-personality psychology. We also hope that this study can provide you with a learning experience of participating in psychological research and possibly learning more about yourself and your beliefs, evaluations, preferences, personality, etc..

Compensation.
Compensation is offered through the online platform. The level of compensation has been indicated on the task that you accepted.

Confidentiality.
Your questionnaire responses are anonymous and strictly confidential. No personal identifiers are kept. Information obtained will only be used as aggregates for research purposes. Deidentified/Anonymized version of the data with no confidential data will be shared publicly to allow the reproduction and reproducibility of our research.

Participation and withdrawal.
Your participation is voluntary. This means that you can choose to stop at any time without negative consequences. If at any time you wish to withdraw, please simply indicate eight zeros as your completion code, and you will receive compensation regardless.

Questions and concerns
If you have any questions about the research, please feel free to contact Gilad Feldman at the University of Hong Kong (gfeldman@hku.hk). If you have questions about your rights as a research participant, contact the Human Research Ethics Committee, HKU (+852 2241-5267). EA210265

Please print a copy of this consent form for your records, if you so desire.

Please select the message box below to indicate that you are 18 years old or older and have read and agree to the above

☐ I fully understand the contents of this consent form and agree to participate in this study. I also agree not to disclose the details of the study to other parties.

When you're ready to begin, please select >> (Next) to proceed to the study.

Study outline + verifications

Study Outline

This survey involves scenarios related to evaluating others and behavioural changes.

Structure:

- 12 vignettes in 12 pages.
- 8 vignettes in 8 pages.
- 2 scales in 2 pages.

- Brief feedback and demographics questions in 2 pages.

Overall: 24 brief pages.

For opinion related questions - There are no “right” or “wrong” opinion answers, so please state your opinion as honestly as possible.

Are you able to pay close attention to the details provided and carefully answer questions that follow?

Yes No

Not sure, probably not

= WARNING: Survey includes attention and comprehension checks. If you do not like participating in surveys with checks, please return the HIT now.=

Do you understand the study outline and are willing to participate in a survey with comprehension checks?

Not sure, probably not

Yes No

This survey is only intended for native English speakers born and raised in the United States.

Are you a native English speaker born, raised, and currently located in the US?

Yes No

Study 1: intro

In this part of the study are 12 different vignettes describing changes in people on various social and personal behaviors (12 pages).

You'll be asked to indicate whether you think this change is morally good or bad and whether it reflects the person's true self or surface self.

Study 1: Alcoholism - positive change

Alcoholic quitting alcohol

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to be an alcoholic. In the past, this person never tried to quit drinking and never expressed any interest in trying to quit. Now, however, this person does not drink any alcohol.

Do you perceive this person's changed behavior as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to stop drinking?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Not at all Completely

0 10 20 30 40 50 60 70 80 90 100

Change is a reflection of true self

Change is a reflection of surface self

Now that this person no longer drinks, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself
1

2

3

4

Neutral
5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself
9

Study 1: Boss - positive change

Treating employees well

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to mistreat employees. In the past, this person often yelled at them and publicly embarrassed them for minor infractions. Now, however, this person never yells at employees or does anything to embarrass them publicly.

Do you perceive this person's changed behavior as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

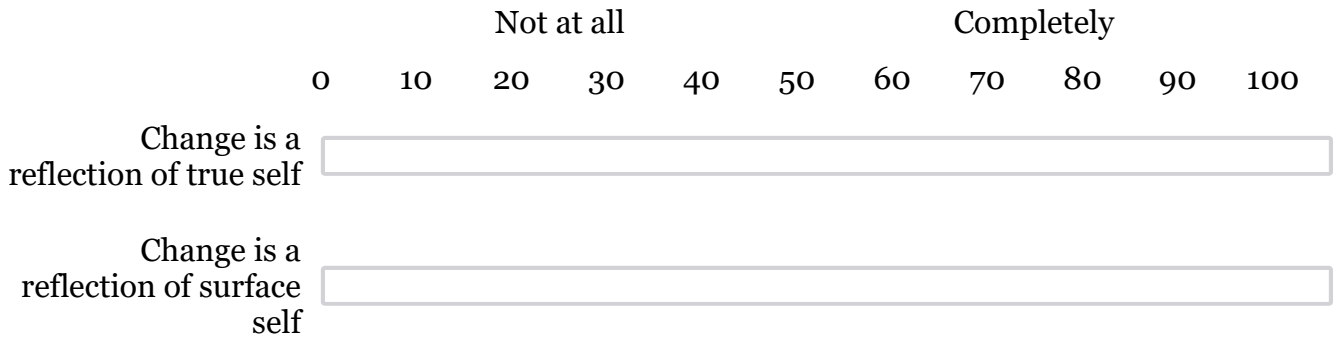

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to start treating employees well?

- This person's "true self" (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's "surface self" (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person treats employees well, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Parent-positive change

Caring Parent

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to be a “deadbeat” parent. In the past, this person never showed any real affection for their children and never expressed any interest in their children’s lives.
Now, however, this person is a very caring and involved parent.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

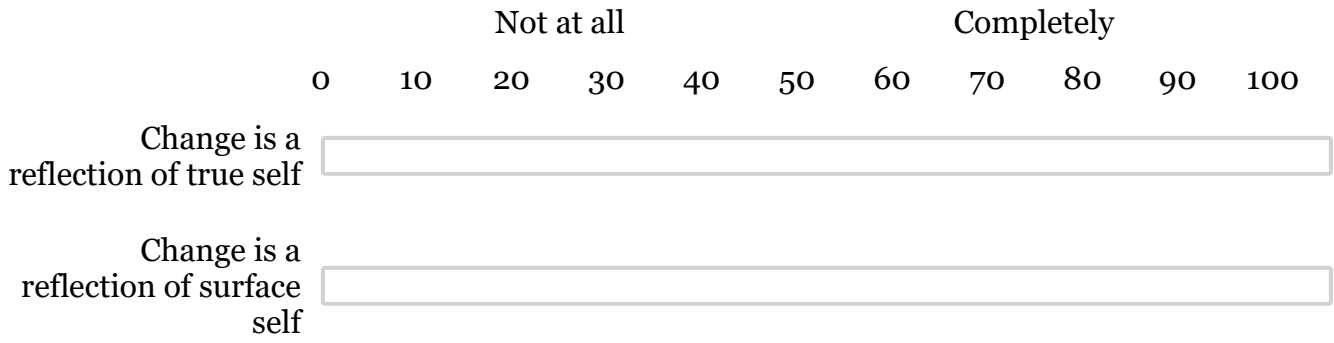

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to become a more caring parent?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person is a caring and involved parent, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself
1

2

3

4

Neutral
5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself
9

Study 1: Ethnic minorities- positive change

Respect ethnic minorities

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person lives in a culture that oppresses ethnic minorities. In the past, this person also mistreated ethnic minorities and never expressed any interest in giving minorities equal rights.
Now, however, this person treats ethnic minorities with respect and believes that minorities should have equal rights.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

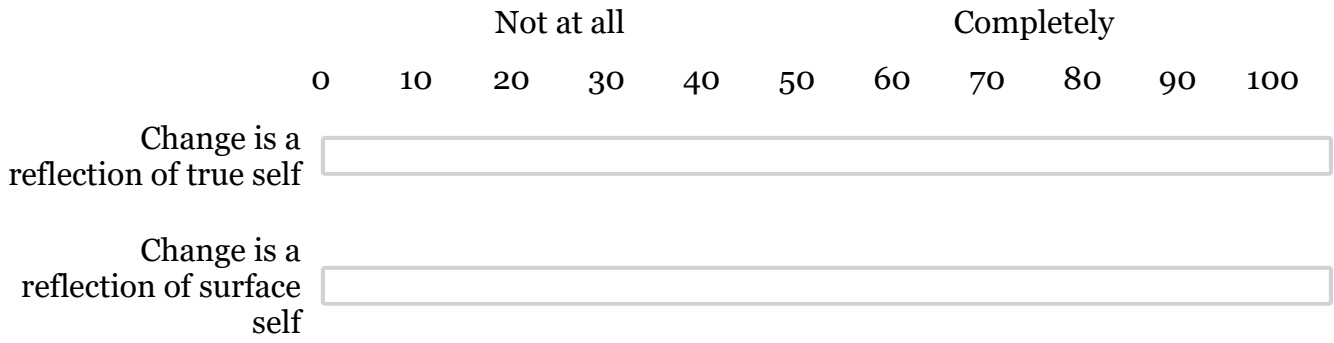

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to treat ethnic minorities with respect?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person treats minorities with respect, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Terrorism - negative change

Support terrorism

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person lives in a culture that does not support terrorism. In the past, this person did not support the idea of terrorism.
Now, however, this person believes that terrorism is an acceptable way to achieve political goals.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

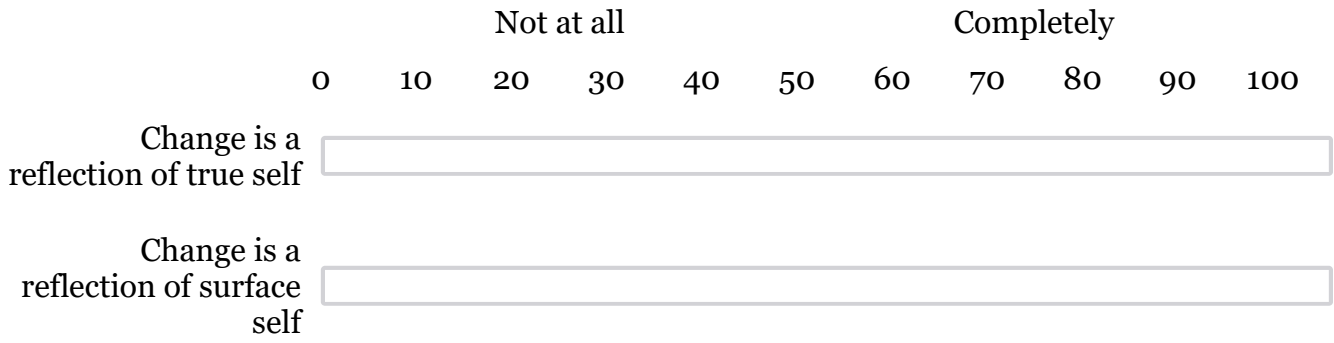

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to believe that terrorism is acceptable?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person believes that terrorism is acceptable, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Business practice- negative change

Dishonest business practices

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person works in an environment that supports only honest business practices. In the past, this person has not participated in dishonest business practices.
Now, however, this person believes that it is permissible to engage in dishonest business practices and behaves unethically.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

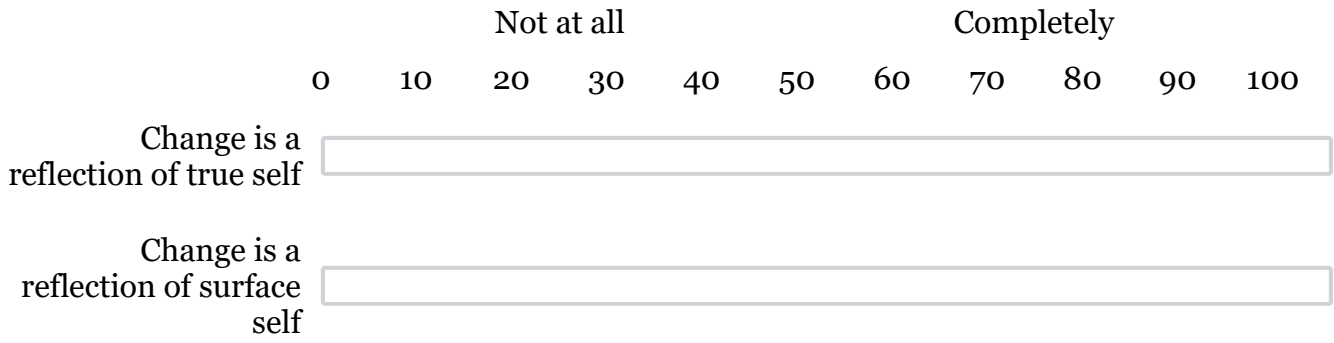

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to believe that dishonest business practices are permissible?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person believes that dishonest business practices are permissible, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Romantic partner- negative change

"Jerk romantic partner"

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to be an excellent romantic partner. In the past, this person never treated their partner poorly.
Now, however, this person is a "jerk romantic partner" and never treats their partner with the proper amount of respect and affection.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

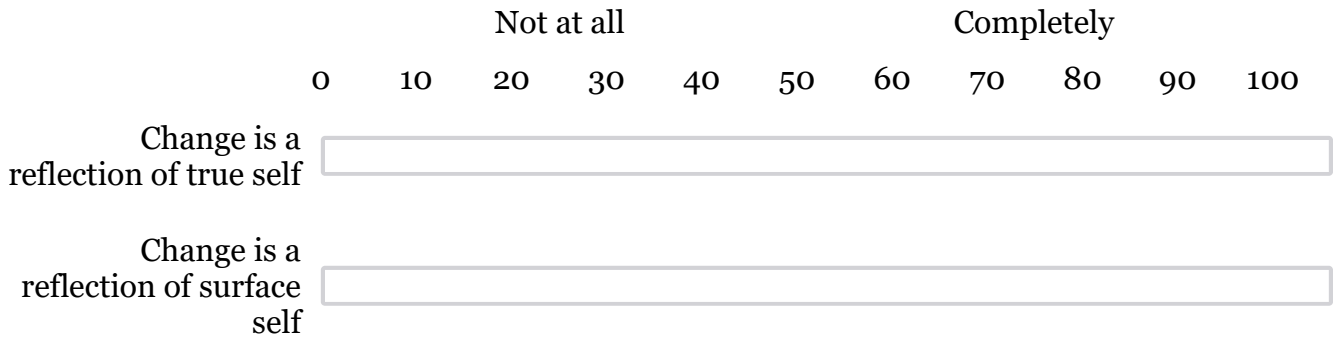

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to treat their partner poorly?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self.
(0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person treats their partner poorly, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Police officer- negative change

Corrupted police officer

Imagine someone is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person is a police officer and works in a station that has never supported police corruption. In the past, this person never participated in corruption and always behaved ethically.
Now, however, this person engages in corrupt activities and does not conduct oneself in an ethical manner.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

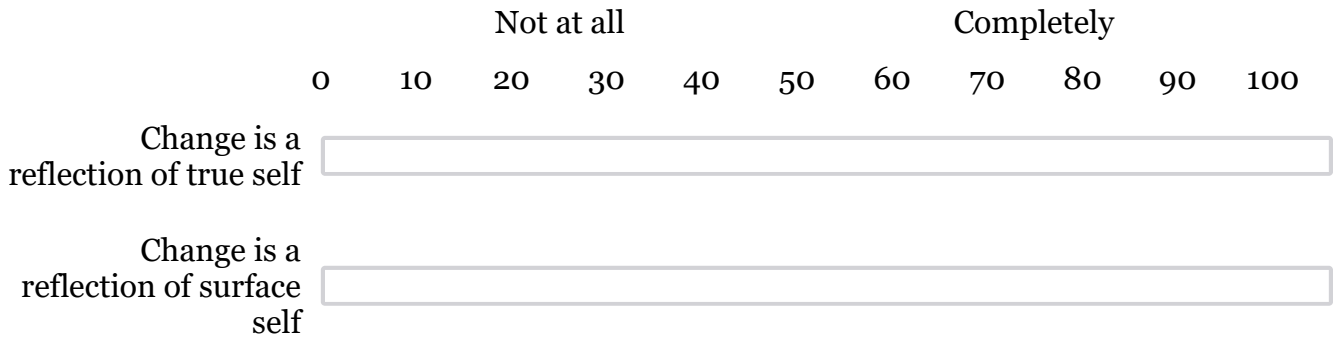

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to start engaging in police corruption?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person engages in police corruption, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself
1

2

3

4

Neutral
5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself
9

Study 1: Neutral - Mac computer

Mac computers

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

In the past, this person used to use PC computers.
Now, however, this person uses only Mac computers.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

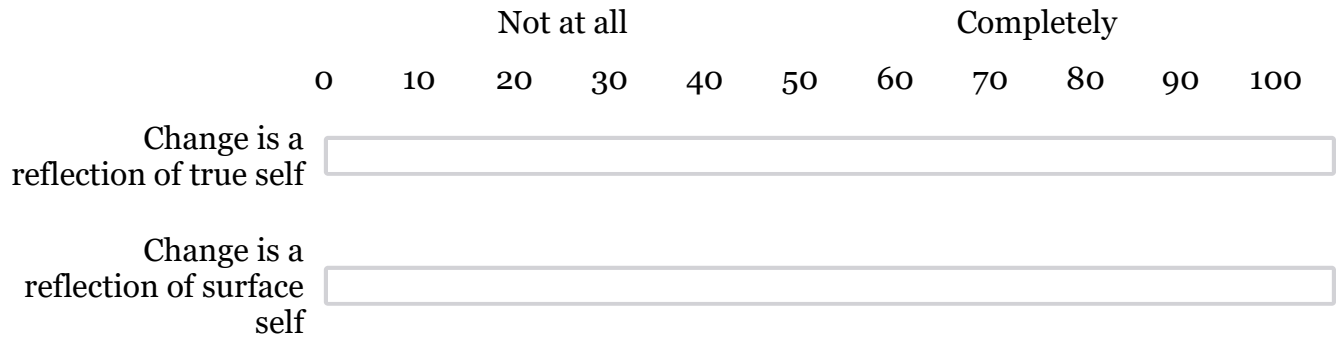

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to use Mac computers?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person uses only Mac computer, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Neutral- country

Living in country

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to live in a big city. In the past, this person frequently talked about how much oneself loved living in an urban environment. Now, however, this person lives in the country and frequently discusses how much oneself loves living in a rural environment.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

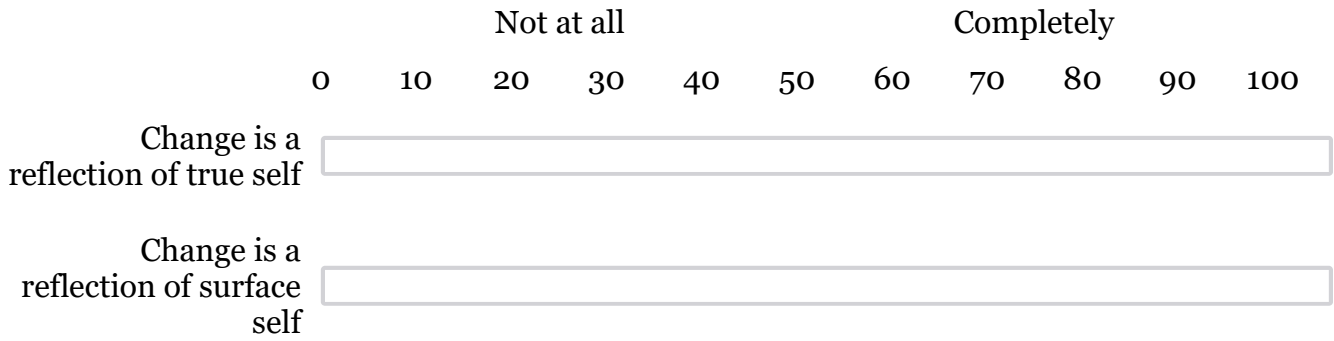

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to prefer a more rural environment?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person lives in the country, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Neutral-cat

Prefer cats

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

In the past, this person used to only have dogs as pets.
Now, however, this person strongly prefers cats and only has them as pets.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

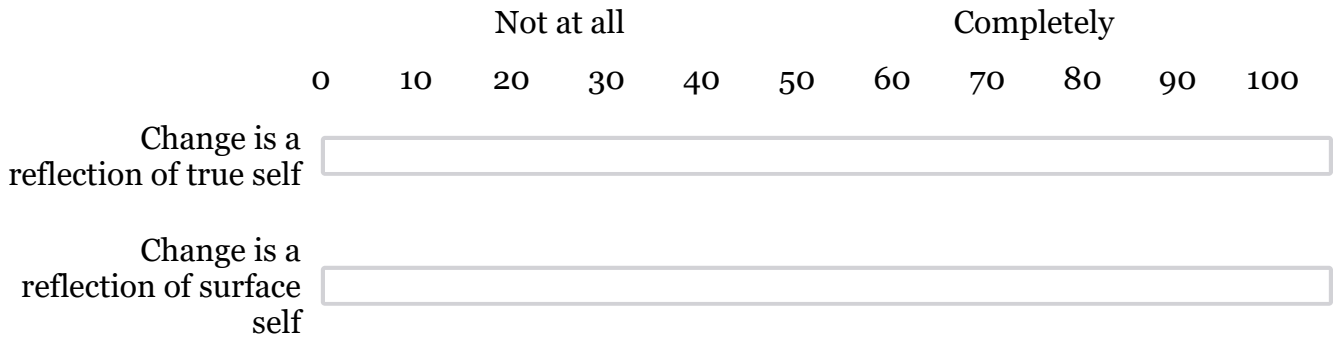

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to own cats?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person owns only cats, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Neutral- football

Football

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

In the past, this person used to believe that baseball was the best sport and only followed baseball.
Now, however, this person only watches football and thinks that football is the best sport.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

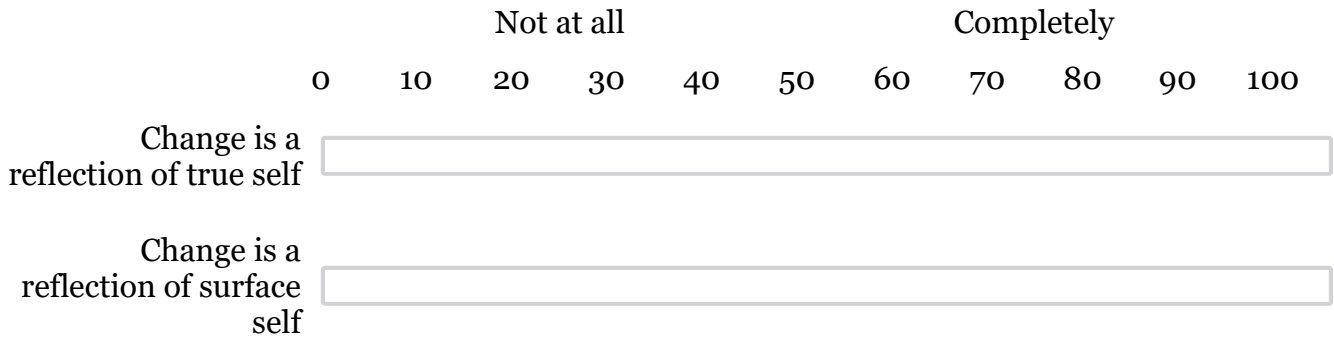

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to start preferring football?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person only watches football, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Alcoholism- negative change

Turning into an alcoholic

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to be a teetotaler. In the past, this person never tried a drink of alcohol and never expressed any interest in drinking.
Now, however, this person is an alcoholic.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

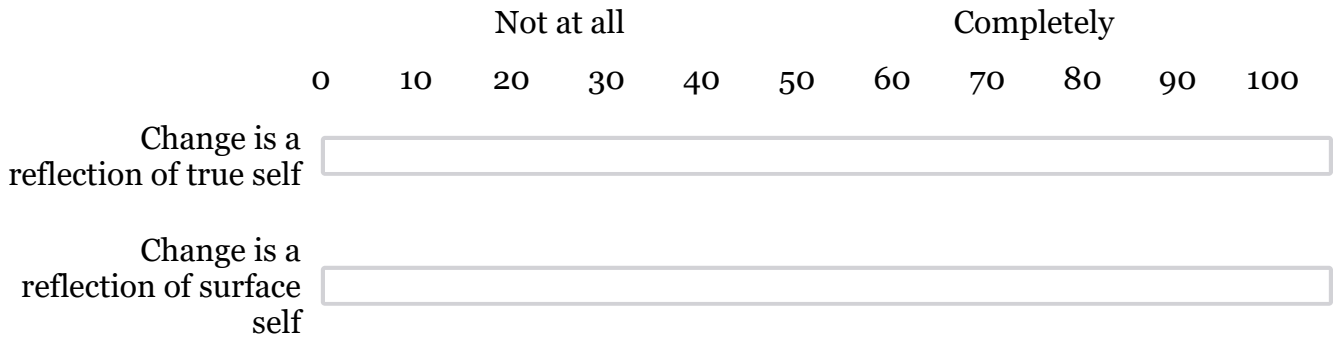

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to start drinking?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person is an alcoholic, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Not much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Boss-negative change

Mistreating employees

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to treat employees well. In the past, this person never yelled at them or did anything to embarrass them publicly.
Now, however, this person often yells at them and publicly embarrasses them for minor infractions.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

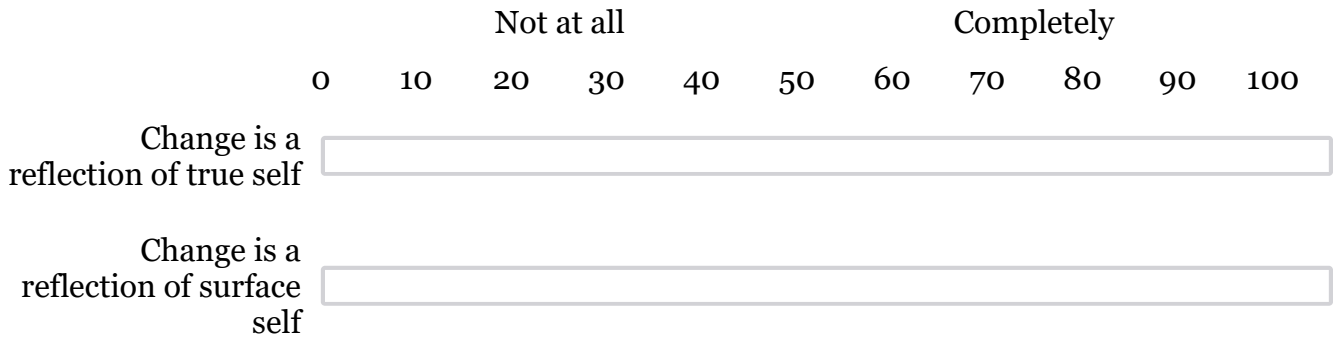

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to start mistreating employees?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person's learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person mistreats employees, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Parent-negative change

"Deadbeat" parent

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to be a very caring and involved parent. In the past, this person always showed real affection for their children and always expressed interest in their children's lives.
Now, however, this person is not a very caring parent and is not involved in their children's lives.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

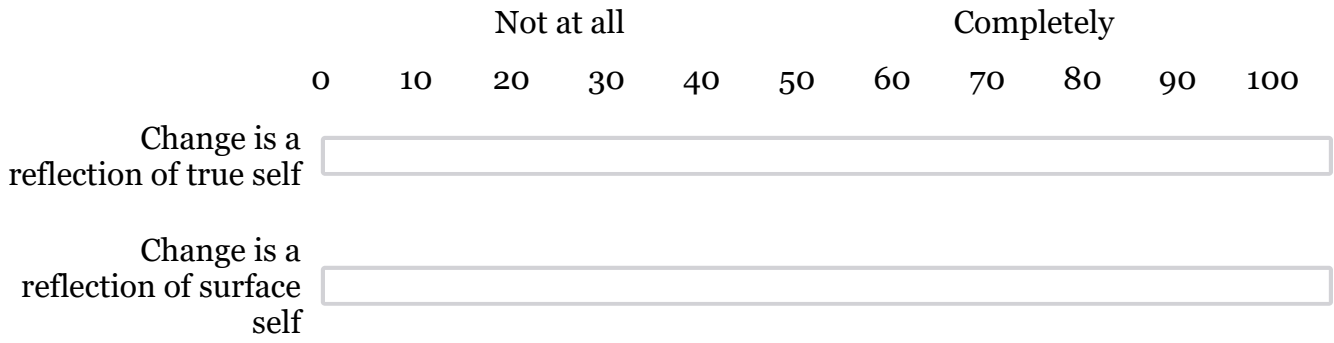

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to become a "deadbeat" parent?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person is a "deadbeat" parent, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself
1
2
3
4
Neutral
5
6
7
8
Very much true to oneself
9

Study 1: Ethnic minorities- negative change

Not respecting ethnic minorities

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person lives in a culture that treats all ethnic groups equally. In the past, this person also treated ethnic minorities with respect and believed that minorities should have equal rights.
Now, however, this person mistreats ethnic minorities and does not think that minorities should have equal rights.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

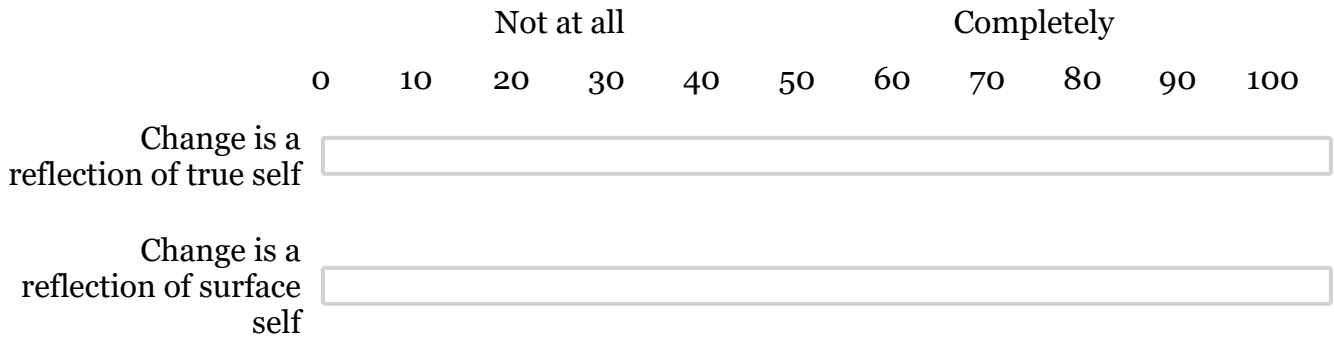

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to mistreat ethnic minorities?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person mistreats ethnic minorities, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Terrorism-positive change

Against terrorism

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person lives in a culture that supports terrorism. In the past, this person supported the idea of terrorism to achieve political goals. Now, however, this person believes that terrorism is wrong.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

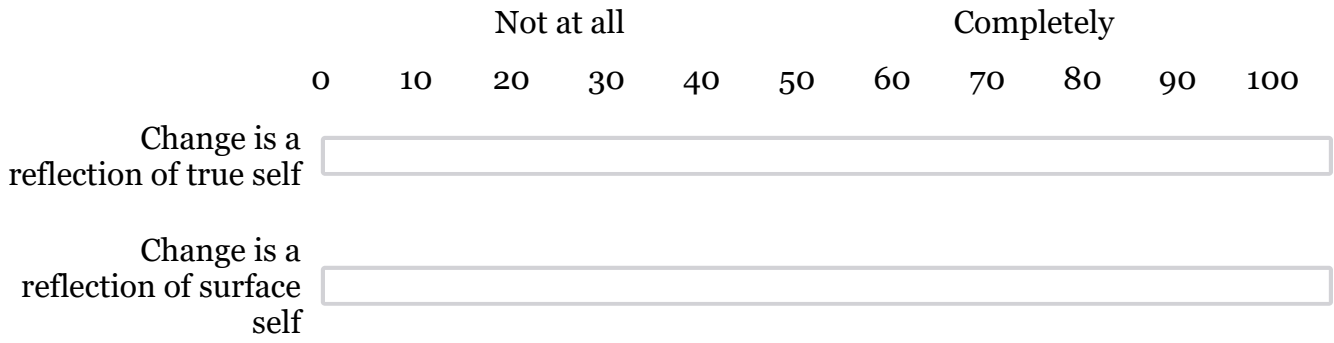

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to believe that terrorism is wrong?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person believes that terrorism is wrong, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Business practice- positive change

Honest business practices

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person works in an environment that supports dishonest business practices. In the past, this person has participated in dishonest business practices.
Now, however, this person believes that it is wrong to engage in dishonest business practices and only behaves ethically.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

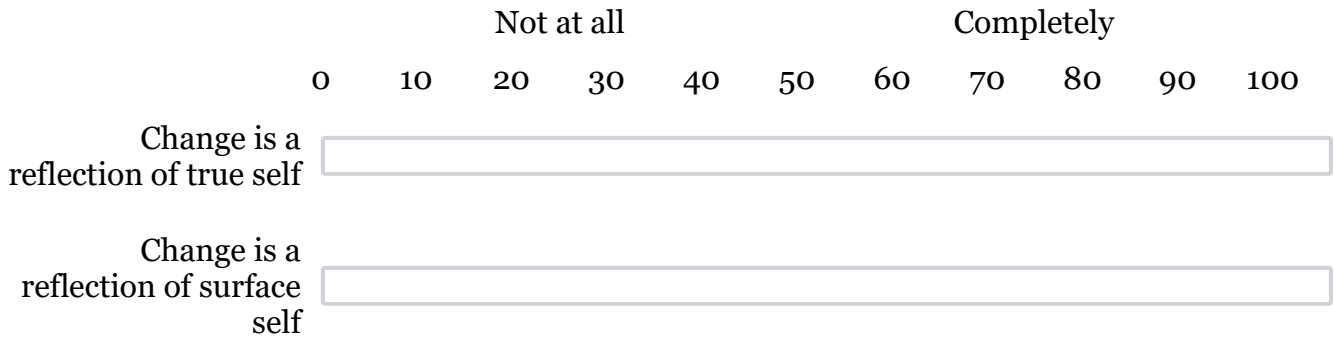

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to believe that dishonest business practices are wrong?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person believes that dishonest business practices are wrong, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Romantic partner-positive change

Excellent romantic partner

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to be a "jerk romantic partner". In the past, this person never treated their partner well.
Now, however, this person is an excellent romantic partner and treats their partner with respect and affection.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

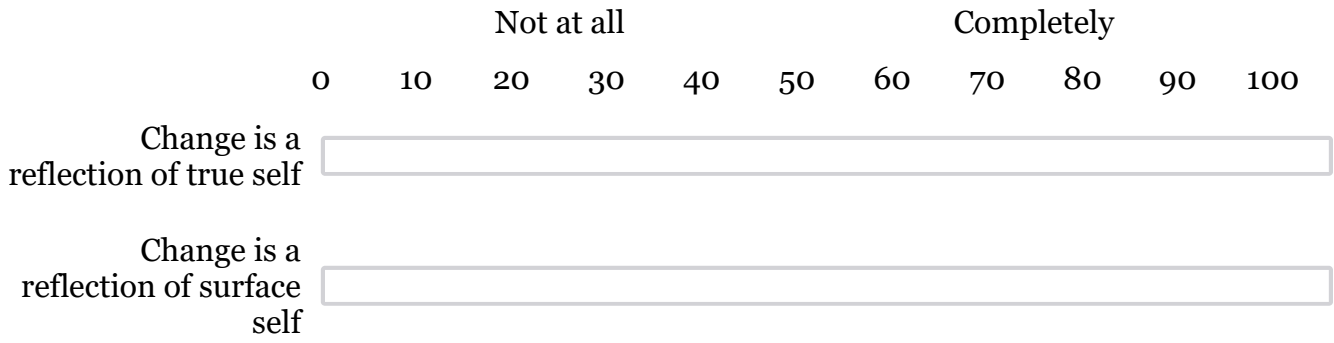

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to treat their partner better?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person treats their partner well, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Police officier-positive change

Stop engaging in corruption

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person is a police officer and works in a station that supports corruption. In the past, this person has also participated in police corruption.
Now, however, this person does not engage in corrupt activities and always conducts oneself in an ethical manner.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

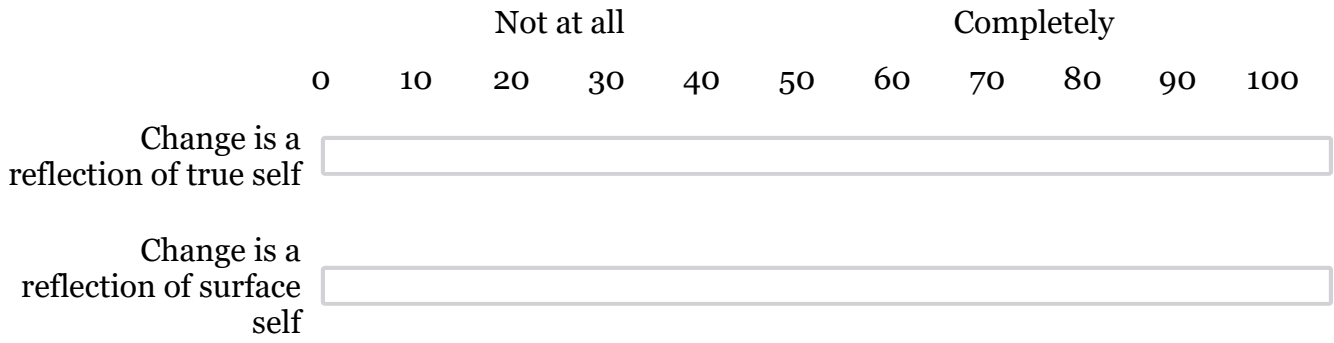

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to stop engaging in corruption?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person no longer engages in police corruption, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself
1
2
3
4
Neutral
5
6
7
8
Very much true to oneself
9

Study 1: Neutral-PC computer

PC computers

Imagine someone who is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

In the past, this person used to use Mac computers.
Now, however, this person uses only PC computers.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

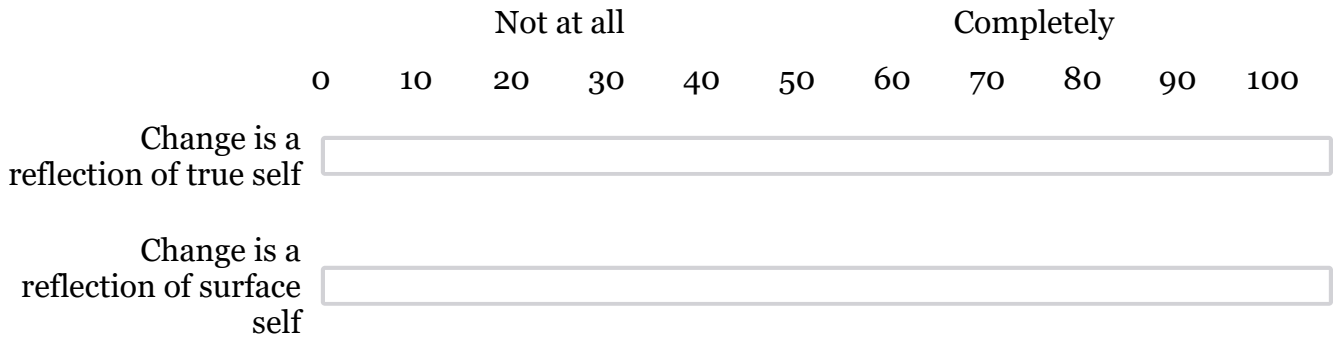

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to use PC computers?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person uses PC computers, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Neutral- city

Living in city

Imagine someone is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

This person used to live in the country. In the past, this person frequently talked about how much oneself loved living in a rural environment.
Now, however, this person lives in a big city and frequently discusses how much oneself loves living in an urban environment.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

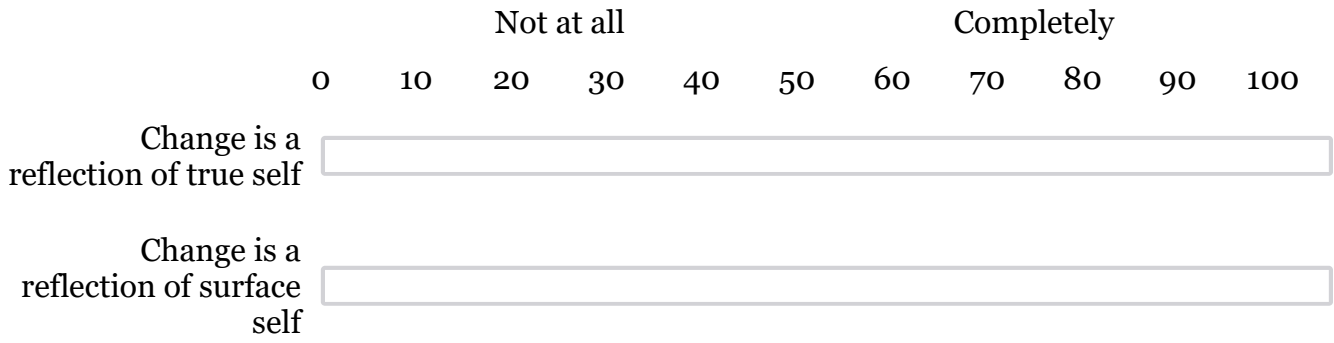

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to prefer a more urban environment?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person lives in a big city, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Neutral-dog

Prefer dogs

Imagine someone is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

In the past, this person used to only have cats as pets.
Now, however, this person strongly prefers dogs and only has them as pets.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

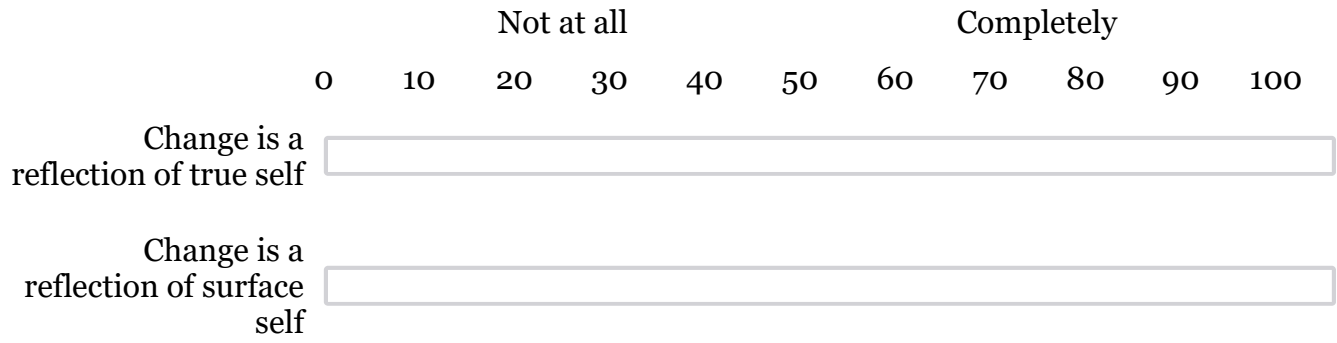

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to own dogs?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person owns only dogs, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Neutral-baseball

Prefer baseball

Imagine someone is different from you in almost every way -- this person has a different occupation and prefers different things than you.

In the past, this person used to believe that football was the best sport and only followed football.
Now, however, this person only watches baseball and he thinks that baseball is the best sport.

Do you perceive this person's change as morally good or morally bad?

Very bad (-100) Neither (0) Very good (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

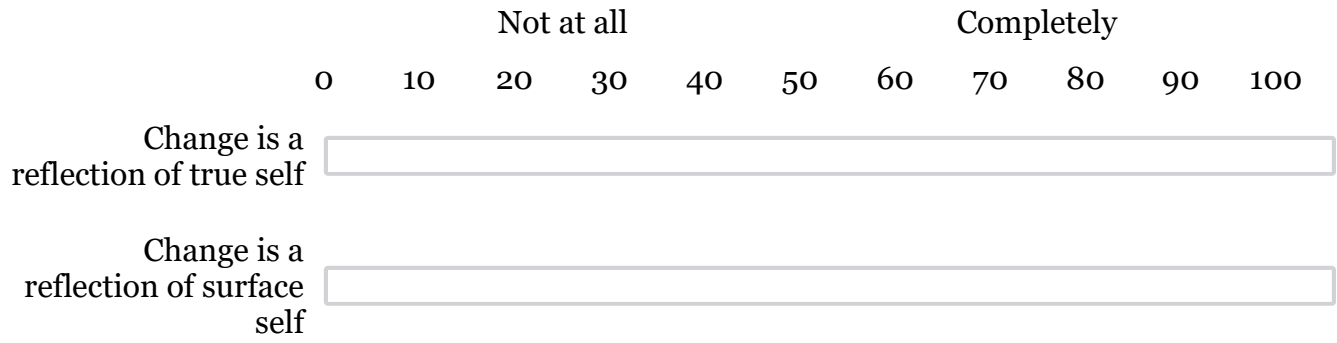

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

In your opinion, what aspect of this person's personality caused the change to start preferring baseball?

- This person's “true self” (the deepest, most essential aspect of this person's being).
- This person's “surface self” (the things that this person learned from society or others).
- None of the above. Explain:

Please rate the extent to which the change is a reflection of true self and of surface self. (0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Now that this person only watches baseball, to what extent is this person being true to the deepest, most essential aspects of their being?

Not at all true to oneself 1

2

3

4

Neutral 5

6

7

8

Very much true to oneself 9

Study 1: Preference-neutral items

Mac or PC, do you have a preference?

Please indicate your own personal preferences:

- Strongly prefer Mac
- Prefer Mac
- No preference
- Prefer PC
- Strongly prefer PC

Country or city, do you have a preference?

Please indicate your own personal preferences:

Strongly prefer the country

Prefer the country

No preference

Prefer the city

Strongly prefer the city

Dogs or cats, do you have a preference?

Please indicate your own personal preferences:

Strongly prefer dogs

Prefer dogs

No preference

Prefer cats

Strongly prefer cats

Football or baseball, do you have a preference?

Please indicate your own personal preferences:

Strongly prefer football

Prefer football

No preference

Prefer baseball

Strongly prefer baseball

Study 2: intro

In this part of the study are 8 different vignettes describing changes in people on various political issues (8 pages).

You'll be asked to indicate whether you think this change is more aligned with conservative or liberal ideals and whether the change reflects the person's true self or surface self.

Study 2: Homosexuality

Homosexual

Someone used to be homosexual. However, now this person is married to a woman and no longer has sex with men.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to stop having sex with men, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Disagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Study 2: Patriotism

Patriotism

Someone used to be unpatriotic and deeply critical of one's country. However, now this person is very patriotic and openly expresses love for one's country.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

Pro conservative (-100) Neither (0) Pro liberal (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to become patriotic, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Disagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Study 2: Theism

Theism

Someone used to be an atheist and did not believe in God. However, now this person is very religious and openly expresses one-self's belief in God.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

Pro conservative (-100) Neither (0) Pro liberal (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to believe in God, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Disagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Study 2: Monogamy

Sexual behavior

Someone used to be sexually promiscuous and had sex with multiple partners. However, now this person is monogamous and has stopped being promiscuous.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

Pro conservative (-100) Neither (0) Pro liberal (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to stop being promiscuous, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Disagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Study 2: Global warming

Global warming

Someone used to not believe in global warming. However, now this person believes global warming is a serious problem and thinks that we should immediately stop burning fossil fuels.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

Pro conservative (-100) Neither (0) Pro liberal (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to believe in global warming, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Diagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly Agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Study 2: Gender equality

Gender equality

Someone used to not pay attention to gender issues in the workplace. However, now, this person works hard to think about gender issues and support women in the workplace.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

Pro conservative (-100) Neither (0) Pro liberal (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to support women in the workplace, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Disagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Study 2: Financial success

Stop prioritizing financial success

Someone used to make a lot of money and prioritized one's financial success above all else. However, now this person works in a job where this person helps others but does not make a lot of money.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

Pro conservative (-100) Neither (0) Pro liberal (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to stop prioritizing financial success above all else, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Disagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Study 2: Abortion

Abortion

Someone used to vandalize abortion clinics. However, now this person thinks that other people's choices should be respected and no longer vandalizes abortion clinics.

Do you perceive this person's change as more pro-liberal or more pro-conservative?

Pro conservative (-100) Neither (0) Pro liberal (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

How much do you agree with the following statement?

“At this person's very essence, there was always something deep within them calling them to stop vandalizing abortion clinics, and then this true self emerged.”

- Strongly disagree
- Disagree
- Moderately disagree
- Mildly disagree
- Neutral
- Mildly agree
- Moderately agree
- Agree
- Strongly Agree

To what extent is the described change in line with accepted social norms?

Very much against social norms (-100) Very much in line with social norms (100)

-100 -80 -60 -40 -20 0 20 40 60 80 100

Individual differences: Introduction

This is the third part of the study.

It includes brief questions about your generalized views (2 pages).
After that there are only quick demographics and wrap-up questions.

Individual differences: Intuition- True self

Please rate your intuitive beliefs regarding your own true self (the deepest and most essential part).

(0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Not at all (0) Completely (100)

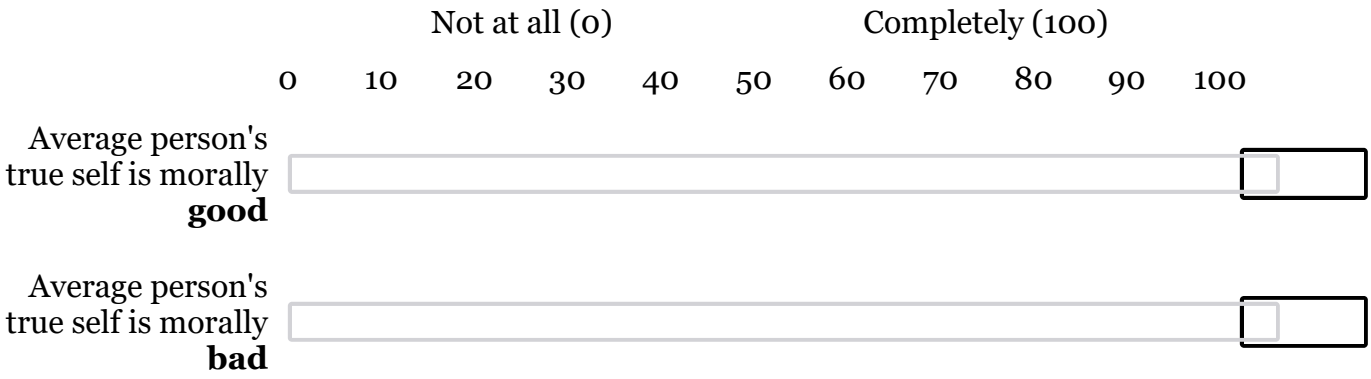

0 10 20 30 40 50 60 70 80 90 100

My true self is morally good

My true self is morally bad

Please rate your intuitive beliefs regarding the average person's true self (the deepest and most essential part).

(0 = Not at all; 100 = Completely)

Individual differences: Political orientation

What are your political views?

Please choose the one that you feel best represents your political views: (if "other", then please write down which)

Conservative

Liberal

Independent

Other

Please indicate your political orientation along the conservative-liberal scale:

Extremely conservative

Very conservative

Somewhat conservative

Center

Somewhat liberal

Very liberal

Extremely liberal

Funneling

Thank you, you completed the survey.

A few quick final questions (4 on this page) and demographics (6 questions in the next page)...

How serious were you in filling out this questionnaire?

1 - Not at all

2

3

4

5 - Very much

Have you ever seen the materials used in this study or similar before?
If yes - please indicate where.

- No
- Yes (if yes, please write in the box below where)

What do you think the purpose of the study was? (one sentence)

Help us improve for the next studies - Did you spot any errors? Anything missing or wrong? Something we should pay attention to in next runs? (briefly)

Demographics

How old are you?

Please indicate your gender

Male Female

Other

Rather not disclose

Which country are you originally from? (country of birth)

In which country are you currently residing?

Please estimate your family's social class :

- Lower class
- Working class
- Lower Middle class
- Middle class
- Upper Middle class
- Upper class

How would you generally rate your understanding of the English used in this study?

- Very Bad
- Bad
- Poor
- Neither Good nor Bad
- Fair
- Good
- Very Good

Pay feedback

This is the last question....

Please rate your satisfaction with the pay/compensation offered for this task (note - this will not impact your pay in any way)

0
Extremely unsatisfied

1

2

3
Neutral

4

5

6
Very satisfied

Debriefing

We would like to thank you for taking part and hope you found it interesting.

The experiments in which you participated today were designed to examine how personal and environmental factors may affect human cognition and decision making. In psychology, it has been known that information can affect person's behavior to certain extent and that individual differences affect behavior. The purpose of the study was to know how exposure to stimuli and certain individual differences affect decision making and behavior.

It's important to note that all of the information that was collected today will be kept in complete confidentiality and there will no attempt or interest in connecting your provided personal information with your responses. This data will be used for research purposes alone and not shared or reported to anyone. We are not interested in any one participant's responses by themselves. Rather, we are interested in the general responses of all participants when they are combined together.

We ask that you please do not share the details of this study with anyone because they may be potential participants and knowing the purpose of the study beforehand may affect the results. Thank you very much for your participation.
If you would like information about the results, or have further questions for us, please contact Gilad Feldman gfeldman@hku.hk at any time. You can also read more about Gilad's research in his website.

Please press NEXT (>>), and wait for confirmation and your secret completion key

Powered by Qualtrics